Introduction to Warehouse concepts

Introduction to WAREHOUSE concepts

Next, we will explain how a WAREHOUSE should be treated, the products that form it, the different DEPARTMENTS that exist in the HOTEL, what a POS is and the possible formulas that StarEcon admits for its treatment, and by similarity what EXTERNAL SUPPLIES are. In the first place, although we are all familiar with it, we give a broad description of what we understand by DEPARTMENT and/or STORE, and then we briefly study how to structure the ARTICLES and to which FAMILIES they correspond

It is equally important to reflect how StarEcon, in a practical way, could bring the explained systems to fruition

.1. DEPARTAMENTO and/or WAREHOUSE concept.

Firstly, we must clarify what is meant by Department, since this concept determines the management system that we must carry out

What is a Department?

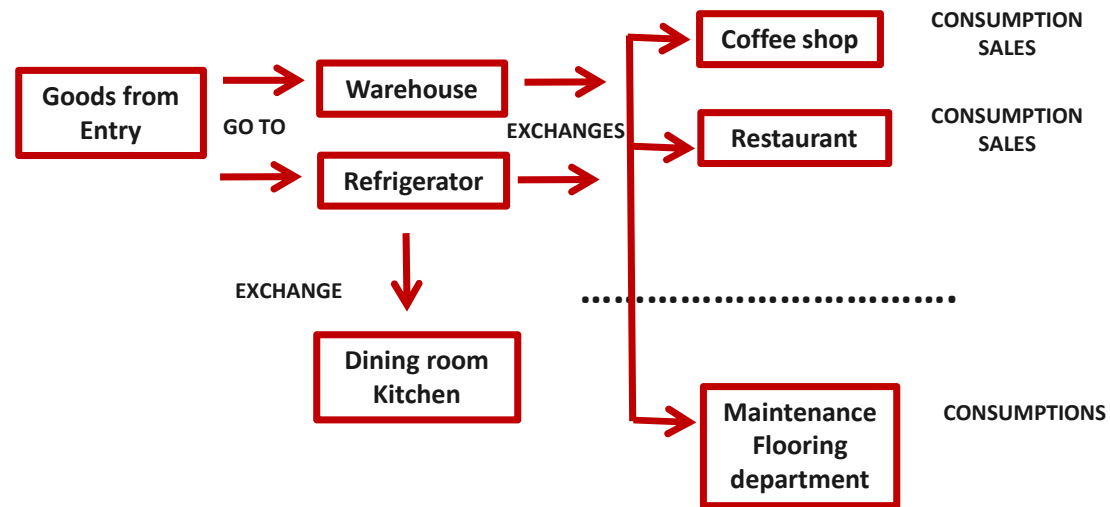

We will say that it is the physical location in which an EXPENDITURE and/or SALES are made. Therefore there are two different models:

- Department of ONLY EXPENDITURE and
- Sales Department

In turn, the HOTELS have a person in charge of PURCHASING who is in charge of the WAREHOUSE Department, which distributes all the merchandise to the rest of the Departments. This system ensures that purchases are made in an orderly manner and can be controlled, as almost all departments depend on the REGULATORY WAREHOUSE or WAREHOUSE

EXPENSE ONLY DEPARTMENT

They are fundamental for the operation and control of the Hotel, they are totally related to the concept of ECONOMY. We must take into account that in the control of the EXPENSES is in good measure the profitability of the Hotel

The DEPARTMENTS OF EXPENDITURE can be among the FOLLOWING

Introduction to Warehouse concepts

SALES DEPARTMENT

BAR
COFFEE SHOP

All the Hotels have a COFFEE SHOP that in addition to serving its customers serve the public as a MORE COFFEE SHOP.

RESTAURANT

Most hotels have ONE or MORE RESTAURANTS to serve the Guests. There are two different types: RESTAURANTS where normally the MEAL is for the Hotel's pension and those where the MEAL is à la CARTE

POOL BAR

SAUNA GYM

DISCOTHEQUE

PUB

TOBACCO MACHINES

VENDING

SUPERMARKET

SHOPS

I believe that with the above explanations we are now ready to enter the next point of conflict. We have understood what a DEPARTMENT (PHYSICAL SITUATION) is, but in order to function it needs to have some articles. Let's see this point
